City Lights Electrical of Canton volunteers to make the House of Possibilities one step closer to a reality

The 11,000-square-foot, two-story building for children, youths, and adults with cognitive or physical disabilities that will serve as a respite home, is moving one step closer to reality with the help and volunteers from City Lights Electrical of Canton, Massachusetts. On Saturday and Sunday the installation of the wire and cables needed for the power, lighting and communication will be installed.

“Working with the House of Possibilities on this project we know it will have a positive impact on the families and children with disabilities and provide a much needed service to the residents in the community,” said Maryanne Cataldo, CEO and Founder of City Lights Electrical Corporation.

“I think we all know a family member, friend or loved one who has been faced with the difficult job of raising a child with a disability. Hopefully when this project is completed it will allow children to be involved in a number of activities and family members a break even if it is only a day or a few hours,” said Cataldo.

The House of Possibilities, Inc. (HOPE) is a grassroots initiative founded in 2003 by a coalition of parents and community activists in response to a critical need for a high quality respite home that would serve families having children with special needs. A respite home is a temporary home that offers a variety of programs for clients.

Those who would like to donate materials or services towards the building phase of HOPE, should contact Paula Kavolius at: houseofpossibilities@comcast.net or call her at 508-682-3103.
